LA CAMPANA must be two books in one—a yearbook to record the activities of all Montclair students for one year and a senior book to tell the history of one class during four years. It may also attempt, as it has this year, to show some of the changes in the college that have occurred within the memory of the present graduating class.

In the past four years there have been changes in the physical appearance of the campus and buildings—the amphitheater and Sprague Field have been completed; new roads, walks, and parking areas have been constructed; the main building has been altered to provide new office space; one dormitory has been made into two by a partition; the old auditorium has been transformed into a new and spacious library.

There have been changes in curriculum and administration—a major in business education has been added and a major in German has been discontinued; men have come to the campus to live—with part of a dormitory to themselves; old teachers have gone and new ones have taken their places.

There have been changes in student government and extracurricular activities—the Men's A.A. has been replaced by the more efficient Athletic Commission; wrestling, fencing, and cross-country have become regular parts of the sports program for men; a new and more effective Limitations Code has been put into operation; the Bureau of Student Publications has coordinated the financial activities of the three major publications; the International Cabaret has become an annual event.

It would be impossible in the short space of 120 pages to tell the complete story, but the staff of La Campana for 1940 has tried, nevertheless, to make this book as comprehensive as possible without sacrificing attractiveness of appearance. The senior section has been rearranged so that everything about one person is in one place; individuals in group pictures have been identified in captions printed with the pictures; a section of new pictures of the campus has been added; and the contents of the book have been classified and grouped in the manner of modern magazines and traditional yearbooks.

But facts are not enough. They are only the raw material, the outline around which memories and dreams are built. Each person will use La Campana for his own purposes, will build his own dreams around it, will make it his book.

And that is as it should be.

HOWARD FRANKLIN FEHR

HIS BACKGROUND of high school and college teaching, lecturing, writing, working at hard manual jobs, and being a student once himself have made Howard F. Fehr an excellent teacher.

A native Pennsylvanian, Mr. Fehr received his degrees of bachelor and master of arts at Lehigh University, and has now completed his work for his degree of doctor of philosophy at Teachers College, Columbia.

During the World War, before becoming a mathematician and educator, Mr. Fehr loaded shells with T.N.T. Summer vacations from Lehigh were spent as a rigger in the open hearth furnaces of the Bethlehem Steel Company.

He taught in two high schools in his home state before coming to South Side High School in Newark in 1927. It was from the latter that he came to M.S.T.C. in 1933. It wasn't long before Mr. Fehr became one of the most popular professors on campus, both in the classroom and out, a man enthusiastic in his chosen field of work and in the extra things that surround it.

This winter "Senior Mathematics for High Schools," the book on which Mr. Fehr and Mr. Mallory collaborated, was published. Besides this, Mr. Fehr has written articles for the New Jersey Educational Journal, Newark Teachers Bulletin, Junior-Senior Clearing House, and Mathematics Teacher.

Also in the professional field was Mr. Fehr's work in helping to revise the curriculum for the new junior high school in Bloomfield. He has been, and is, teaching advanced calculus in the Newark Technical School. His chosen field for work for his doctor's degree was in the numbers system in algebra.

But all students at M.S.T.C., in and out of the mathematics department, remember Howard F. Fehr for his readiness to give Montclair athletics a boost, his willingness to guide financial affairs of the S.G.A. and the Bureau of Student Publications, and his interest in all the students and all of their activities.

TO HOWARD F. FEHR, assistant professor of mathematics, in appreciation of his contributions to the college and to the teaching profession, the staff gratefully dedicates La Campana for 1940. His thoroughness as a scholar, his leadership as a teacher, his understanding as a friend, his enthusiasm for athletics, his assistance as financial adviser of student activities—all have been indispensable in the development of Montclair State Teachers College.

STUDENT TEACHING SUPERVISORS

BECAUSE of the extra burden of supervising student teachers during the spring term, the integration department finds it necessary each year to enlarge its staff for that period. This term Carlton W. Clough and Homer Howard were appointed to supervising positions. In addition, Mr. Howard taught three sections of freshman integration.

C A M P U S

MONTCLAIR STATE Teachers College is not a large school, but its campus located on the east side of the Watchung mountain range is a very beautiful one with a view of the wide valley below extending to the distant blue haze of the New York skyline. The four main buildings are in Spanish mission style, with white stucco walls and red roofs contrasting with the surrounding green of trees and lawns.

Yet thirty-five years ago this campus was just a mountain side no different from the surrounding hills.

In 1904 the New Jersey legislature voted for the establishment of a teacher training school here. Twenty-five acres were purchased, and in 1908 Administration Hall, the main building, was completed and the first class admitted to the two-year normal school course. There were no lawns or driveways then. Trees were just saplings. Planks were needed to cross puddles which blocked the entrance of the school on rainy days. Horse cars along Valley Road brought the students, all girls, to school.

In 1914 Edward Russ Hall was built with a bequest of Edward Russ, who at the time of his death was a member of the State Board of Education and chairman of the normal school committee. Chapin Hall, completed in 1928, was named in honor of Dr. Charles S. Chapin, principal of the Normal School from September, 1908, until his death March 21, 1924. Each of these dormitories can accommodate about one hundred students.

College High School was completed in 1929, and about the same time additional land was purchased to bring the total area of the campus to ninety acres.

Until 1927 Montclair was a normal school with a student body composed almost entirely of women, but in May of that year resolutions were passed by the State Board which established it as a state teachers college for the education of teachers for the secondary school. The course of study was changed from a two- to a four-year curriculum. The first class to be graduated from the four-year curriculum was the class of June, 1930.

In the fall of 1936 when members of the present graduating class were freshmen, Sprague Field, not completed until 1938, was a swamp, full of weeds, stumps, and willow trees. For years this swamp had been used as a dumping ground for Montclair ashes and other refuse. Later sufficient soil was added to make it the fine athletic field it is today.

Behind the administration building, weeds and tall grasses once filled the space now occupied by sweeping lawn and concrete walks. Roads and a new parking space are ready to accommodate hoped-for new buildings beyond the high school. The main parking space at the west end of the administration building was completed last year.

The amphitheater, only recently completed and already the scene of outdoor graduations, Players productions, concerts, and foreign language festivals, nestles in the woods as if it had always been there. Built out of a bed of native stone, it is the favorite gathering place for students on warm spring days.

The class of 1938 left funds which, added to some already available funds, were used for the building of an outdoor fireplace and benches in Upper Field, already used for many picnics held by various clubs.

But no matter what improvements may be made in the future, the members of this year's graduating class will be able, it is hoped, to look at the following series of photographs and recall Montclair as it was in their college days.

ALMA MATER

I

Beneath the Jersey skies of blue,
In Montclair's mountain town,
There stands our college, tried and true
And growing in renown.
We love thy campus, love thy halls,
And oft to thee we raise
With loyal lips and loyal hearts
United songs of praise.

II

We love thy colors, dear Montclair,
The scarlet and the white,
May they forever help us dare
To choose and do the right.
And though in after years our fate
May tear us far apart,
Nor time nor space may separate
The ties that bind our heart.

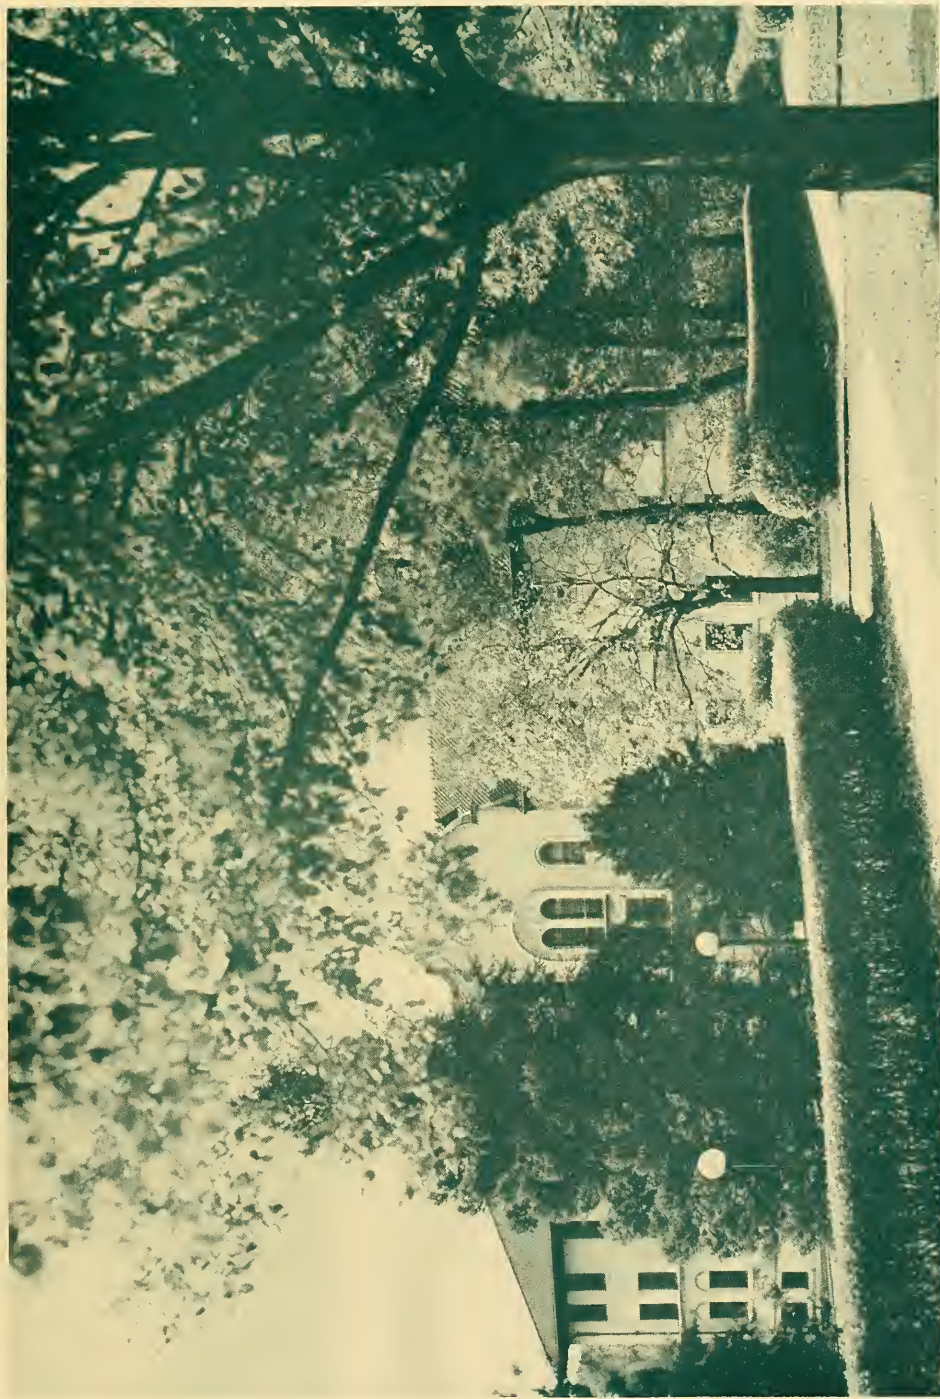

Chorus

All hail, all hail, Montclair!
To thee our voices raise,
Alma Mater, dear Montclair,
Our undying hymn of praise.

COLLEGE HIGH SCHOOL

Really appreciated only by seniors when it is too late is the opportunity to observe actual high school classes "in action," provided by the demonstration high school of about 150 pupils located on the Montclair campus.

CHAPIN HALL

This year Chapin was transformed by a partition from a women's dormitory to a coed dormitory, with women living in one end of the building and men in the other. This is the nearest that the college has yet come to having a men's dorm on campus.

EDWARD RUSS HALL

Since it contains the kitchen and dining room, Russ, the older and larger of the two dormitories, is the center of most activities which feature food.

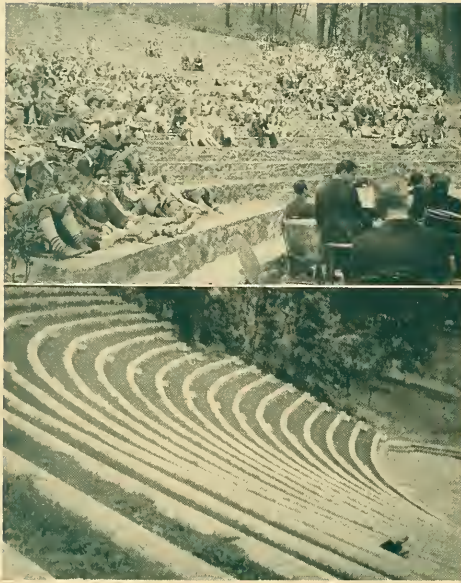

EAST ENTRANCE

Branching on the right to the main building and on the left to the dorms, the entrance from Valley Road is used by those who come to college by bus or on foot.

WEST ENTRANCE

New main entrance for automobile drivers is the recently widened and paved road leading from Normal Avenue past the back of Chapin Hall to the new parking area.

A. orchestra last spring (upper left above) and for commencement exercises of the class of 1939 (above right) and as it appears when empty, its terraced rows of seats making geometrical patterns (lower left above and picture below).

CAUGHT IN THE ACT!

Some of the high spots of the past year recorded by the candid camera found seniors taking an active part in Montclair activities. In last year's International Cabaret Joe Huemer took Lydia Caliandro for a ride (1), and she seemed to enjoy it.

The 1939 Junior Prom saw Asa Starkweather's answer to Joyce Kilmer. He proved that men can make a tree (and women, the leaves). The tree appeared slightly different from above (2) than it did from below (3). Recognizable in the latter picture are seniors John Riddell, Mary Temple, Peter Mannion, and John Hoagland. Another contribution by Asa Starkweather to (Next Page)

CAUGHT IN THE ACT!

Montclair was his unusual staging and lighting effects for the annual Dance Club recital which featured in 1939 the comedy of a wrestling match (4) and the tragedy of Tristram and Iscalt (5).

Chairman Eleanor Egly and master of ceremonies Phil Perkins produced the successful junior assembly last spring which presented members of the class of 1940 in a gay nineties atmosphere (6) with pretty Lydia Calandro singing to the accompaniment of the be-wigged Simon Sadoff (8).

Climax of the year 1938-39 was, of course, graduation, with the Choir adding its music to the first commencement held in the amphitheater (9).

One of the first groups to use the new fireplace on Upper Field was Math Club. Watching Anna Falcone, who apparently did the cooking (7), were Irene Balto, Frances Berghorn, Margaret Jane Casteline, Barbara Fuess, Mr. Fehr, Alice Putnam, and Dr. Mallory. The two who are uninterested in food are obviously not Montclair students.

Among the prize-winners at the 1939 Hallowe'en Dance were clothing-store dummies Claire Harman, '40, and Walter Bodenschatz, '39 (10). Sophomore Annela Biggs and the shy individual behind her were also awarded prizes.

An attempt to rival Dartmouth's snow and ice sculpture was made this fall by sculptors Milan Daniel, Leo McMullin, Miss Toomey, Mary Brochu, the other Miss Toomey, and Ronald Engelhardt (11). Ronnie was not very chivalrous in his attitude toward the lady.

Night work was the order when La Campana was being prepared for the printer (12). Ed Slingland, Eleanor Pellet, John Hoagland and Ed Johnson seemed worried when this was snapped.

FOR ALL seniors the four years just passed are kaleidoscopic memories of study, fun, and a growing love for Montclair, from the day they first stood among strange faces to sing "All hail, all hail, Montclair" to the day, not so far off, when they will stand in cap and gown to sing "Alma Mater" for the last time. During those days the class of 1940 has become a vital and important part of Montclair.

The class of 1940 was distinguished by characteristics of initiative and individuality as well as by the achievements of many outstanding personalities. All classes like social affairs; this class did, too, and added to the usual class formals an annual informal party, which in the last two years became Junior Night and Senior Night. All classes support campus clubs; this class founded a new club and revitalized an old one.

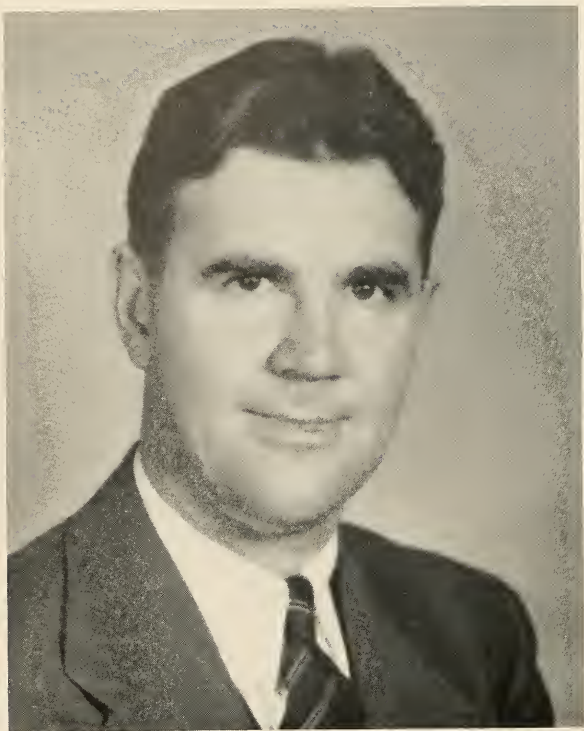

Outstanding achievements in varied fields were many among the members of the class of 1940. Representatives of Montclair's fine work in science was the selection of Irene Ehrmann to study at the Marine Biological Laboratory in Woods Hole, Massachusetts. In the field of literature Julian Ziegler's fine work in reorganizing the slowly dying Creative Writing Club and Genevieve Rowe's excellent leadership of the Poetry Club, founded by members of this class, were worthy contributions to Montclair's activities.

Indispensable parts of Montclair's life are athletics, publications, and dramatics. To the long list of Montclair's athletic victories Tom Flagg added record-breaking performances in track. The Bureau of Student Publications was organized largely through the efforts of members of this class. Greater pleasure for audiences at assemblies and Players' performances was insured by the staging and lighting effects created by Asa Starkweather. More frivolous entertainment was provided by Simon Sadoff's pseudo-soprano voice and Phil Perkins' weird musical instruments.

Among the American college students who learned to fly under government supervision were seven Montclair seniors: Phil Carstens, Milan Daniel, John Homlish, Edward Johnson, Peter Mannion, Emil Piel, and Ben Slatin.

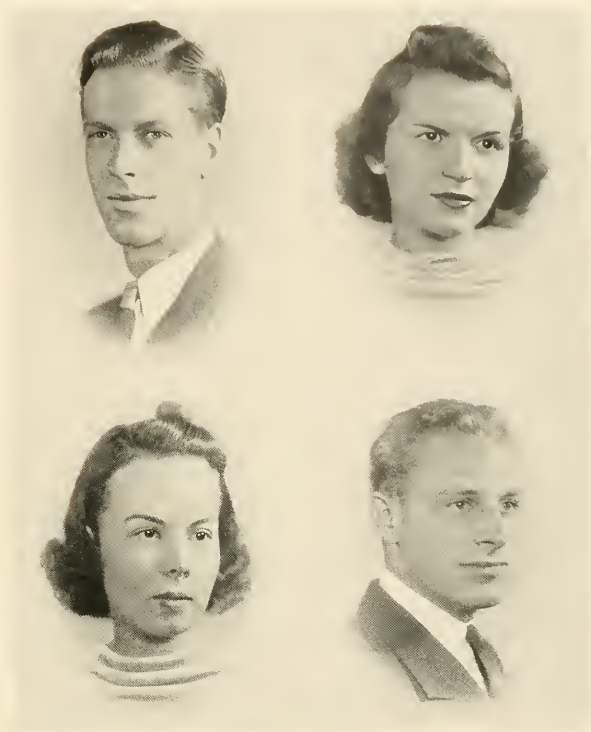

Some names were synonymous with certain activities: Jeanne LeBeau and debating; Peter Mannion and student government; Joe Fernandez and John Riddell and Tribe; John Hoagland and publications; and Pearl Wolfson and her inimitable "Casey at the Bat."

The achievements of these people, though outstanding, are representative of the contributions made to and for Montclair by the graduating class. This class will remember Montclair; Montclair will remember the class of 1940.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

INCORPORATED BY the State of New Jersey as a "corporation for no pecuniary profit," the Student Government Association governs, and upholds the voice of, the students.

The Association is empowered to charter campus organizations and effect such discipline as is necessary; to take complete charge of financial affairs; to maintain committees for the investigations and activities found needful during the college year.

To effectively administer the several objectives, the Association elects from its membership each year a Board of Trustees. The officers of this Board are selected from the entire student body and two representatives from each class are chosen to serve with the class presidents as members of the Board.

The Finance Committee gathers together the budgets of the College organizations entitled to funds and makes recommendations for their appropriations. Other problems of the school are handled by the Social, Assembly Program, House and Grounds, Elections, Amplifier, and Publicity Committees. A Limitations Code Committee investigates violations of the point system, and the Freshmen Orientation Committee supervises the affairs of the Freshmen week.

BUREAU OF STUDENT P U B L I C A T I O N S

ONLY STUDENT organization engaged in publishing activity is the Bureau of Student Publications which issues the newspaper, magazine, and yearbook. Membership on the staff of one or more of these publications, which are editorially independent of one another, means membership in the Bureau.

Managing the finances of the Bureau and acting as a unifying body for the three staffs is the Publications Council, composed of ten members—the editor, business manager, and faculty adviser of each publication and a financial adviser for the Bureau. Chosen by the Council to serve as executives for the Bureau are a non-voting Director and Treasurer.

The official student newspaper is the Montclarion, published every alternate Friday during the college year with the exception of regular school holidays.

Montclair Quarterly, the student magazine issued three times a year—in December, March, and June, publishes student-written verse, short stories, familiar essays, criticism, and humor.

La Campana, primarily a senior book, has a staff of editors and associate editors chosen from that class. However, assistant editors from the junior class and a content representing all classes and activities make La Campana in reality a school yearbook.

This year the freshman handbook, The Arrowhead, was published by a special committee under the joint authority of the Publications Council and the Freshman Orientation Committee of the S. G. A. A 76-page pocket-size book, the Arrowhead contained information about the college and its activities compiled to help the newcomer become acquainted with the college.

MONTCLAIR QUARTERLY

ONE HUNDRED THREE

M U S I C

ALL FORMS of musical expression are provided for by the six major musical organizations of the college: Pro Musica, College Choir, Orchestra, Band, Junior Choir, and Women's Glee Club.

Pro Musica, honorary music society under the guidance of Dr. McEachern, has a three-fold aim: first, to bring together those students capable and desirous of performing the best in music; second, to provide serious music students opportunities for further study; third, to develop a love for great music by its presentation.

Mr. Mueller's direction of the college choir has advanced the art of a cappella singing at Montclair. This organization offers cultural opportunities to the students through its many concerts and also brings prestige to the school by its off-campus program.

The college symphony orchestra is under the direction of Mr. Kahn, who is a noted conductor and composer.

Great strides forward have been taken by the band in the last few years. It has grown in every way—size, repertory, and reputation. Playing and marching have contributed to the school spirit at football games. Mr. Guerrero's fine work this year has been appreciated.

Formerly a proving ground for the college choir, the junior choir has become a separate organization proud of its own existence.

The glee club offers many of the women of the college an opportunity to participate in musical activities.

THE MEN's Athletic Commission, governing body for men's sports at Montclair, is composed of three faculty members who serve permanently and two student representatives who are appointed annually by the S. G. A. Board of Trustees. This commission decides all matters of athletic policy, formulates and enforces rules and regulations governing inter-collegiate athletic competition, and acts as an athletic awards committee.

The Tribe, varsity lettermen's club, fosters and publicizes athletics at Montclair. All men who win varsity awards are invited to join, but only those who participate in the club's activities and aid in furthering its objectives retain their membership. The Tribe is governed by a council of five members elected annually, and the coaching staff acts in an advisory capacity.

The athletic program at Montclair also makes provision for intramural sports, including touch football, basketball, basketball foul shooting, volleyball, softball, a pentathlon, and archery. This program, which is run by and for the men students under the supervision of the coaching staff, is open to all men of the college who wish to participate.

At the end of each sport series, members of the winning team are presented with awards. An individual intramural championship is also conducted each year. Individuals are given points for competition in each sport, and the seven having the greatest number of points at the end of the year are awarded permanent possession of valuable trophies, cups, and medals. Winners in the 1938-39 intramural competition were: first, William Mungenast, '41; second, Vernon Ritchey, '41; third, Seymour Samet, '41; fourth, Philip Egeth, '42; fifth, Richard Matteo, '41; sixth, David Van Dillen, '41; and seventh, Robert Maurer, '42.

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

COMBINING A full sports program with a related social calendar, the Women's Athletic Association offers outstanding opportunity for fellowship among the women of the college. Membership is granted to any woman who actively participates in at least one of the recognized sports. It must be renewed yearly through continued participation.

Hockey, volleyball, archery, basketball, and softball are organized into clubs, each directed by a manager and three assistants. Tennis and badminton tournaments are also sponsored by the W.A.A. Of these, the former has been handicapped during the past two years through lack of court facilities, but the latter was a successful innovation last spring.

Active participation in a sport club means attending a specified number of practices during the season, and spreading these practices over a given period of weeks. A red and white felt bar is awarded for a full season in one sport. Three completed seasons in any one activity earn a player the insignia of that sport club, a red and white felt shield bearing a symbol characteristic of that field of athletics. A player who has earned awards for eight terms is granted a felt "M," and if she plays two additional terms is given the highest W.A.A. award, the gold "M."

Competition in hockey, volleyball, basketball, and softball is conducted along similar lines. After several weeks of general practice, class teams are formed and intramurals begin. The climax of the season is the rivalry of the "red" and "white" teams. These are made up of the most skilled performers of the entire organization.

The Association is knit together by a governing council including the officers, the sports managers, the president and vice-president of the preceding year, and the two advisers, Miss Duke and Miss Sherwin.

OUTSTANDING ON last year's archery program was the formation of an archery club under the leadership of Marie Kuhnen. The regular season was highlighted by archery playdays at Trenton and Newark State Teachers Colleges, and the regular all-M.S.T.C. tournament held in May in which Marie Kuhnen and Betty Lotz placed first and second respectively.

In the fall the archery club was enlarged and took over the attic where a target was set up and a twenty-foot range measured off. The club is separate from the regular W.A.A. program.

Last year's committee in charge of archery was headed by Marie Kuhnen.

THE SOPHOMORE class won this year in volleyball. Their varsity defeated every other team in the college, having the most difficult time with the juniors, winners last year.

Volleyball is the only sport that approaches basketball in popularity. During 1939, 49 girls were consistent participants, and were awarded bars at the annual banquet. In number alone the sophomores were superior, having 20 players who won bars. The juniors numbered 15; the seniors, nine; the freshmen, five.

Only two red and white games were necessary to determine that the scarlet was the winner. They took both, 36-22, and 32-30.

The volleyball sport club was managed by Edith Greer.

BASKETBALL

Third Row: Filippone; Jefferis; Burlew; Kuhn; Branzberg.

IN NUMBER of participants and length of time it continues, basketball is the biggest thing on the W.A.A. calendar. More than a hundred girls took part in this sport.

One of the departures from former years was the formation of two teams which adopted the New Jersey Indian tribe names, Lenapes and Delawares, and competed throughout the season. The purpose in drawing up such a program was to create greater interest throughout the weeks which formerly were mere sign-up practices.

Red and white games in basketball, as always, proved to be the most closely contested games of the entire year.

Gertrude Wegryn was chairman of the basketball club.

THIS YEAR even though the play of active hockey participants was of a higher grade than in former years, the number of players was not high enough to carry out the usual schedule of class or even red and white games.

Twenty-five girls played, but all were not available for games at the same time. Toward the end of the season, in order to recapture the enthusiasm evident earlier in the year, two games were played against Panzer. These two contests, one of which was won and one lost, made an otherwise dull season take on a tinge of success.

As a group, the freshmen were outstanding for the number of participants and the quality of play. Marjorie MacInnes was chairman.

LAST YEAR'S freshmen took their only intramural title for the year 1938-39 in softball. The seniors were beaten at every turn while the juniors failed to qualify as a team because of the deficiency in numbers. The sophomores were runners-up for the school championship.

The class of '42 had the outstanding squad of the year, combining individual skill and smooth team work. Their only letdown was in a post-season challenge game when they were defeated by the revengeful sophomores. Their picture is printed here.

Nine freshmen ('42's) qualified for coveted positions on the red and white teams.

Gladys Frohlich was chairman.

C R I S I S

SINCE THE student exchange system was put into operation at Montclair in 1929 by Miss Margaret B. Holz, over one hundred students have been sent to study in France, Germany, Switzerland, Spain, Mexico, and Argentina. In return, Montclair has received twenty-five exchange students from these countries.

The excellence of the organization of the exchange system is shown by the fact that so far the only thing which has interrupted its functioning is a major crisis—a European war. Even in the case of the civil war in Spain the students of Spanish were not deprived of their year of study in a Spanish-speaking country, for they were sent to Mexico. This year, however, those who were to study at the universities and normal schools of France and Germany were unable to do so.

Most of the girls had their trunks packed and had obtained their passports and steamship tickets before the war broke out. Those who were going to France were to sail on September, 19, and nearly made a successful exit, but war was declared, and their passports were no longer valid. Planning to study in France were Katherine Crowell, Marion Higgins, Marion Knoess, Isabel Pleune, Marion Reger, and Alice Reichl; in Germany, Gertrude Abend, Elfriede Fornoff, Marian Gerds, and Frances Razee.

Among the more fortunate members of the senior class are those who had completed their studies abroad before the war came. After spending an uncertain year at their schools, the girls had to cut short their vacations in order to comply with the wishes of the United States government that all Americans leave the war zone. Tullia De Rogatis, Rose Franco, Marjorie Page, Paulette Politinsky, Betty Telfer, Doris Twaddell, and Dorothy Wuest had studied in France; and Ruth Holl, Hattie Schuster, Charlotte Weiss, and Angela Zybal, in Germany. Helen Zschoche, who spent the year at Leipzig, received a teaching position there and has not returned to Montclair.

The two students who have most recently benefited by the student exchange system are Christina Surgeoner and Angelo Spadaro. Angelo left in February to study for a year in Argentina. He will return to graduate with the class of 1941. Christina returned from Mexico in January—too late to be included in the regular senior section of La Campana. However, her picture, activities, and "personal" are printed on this page.
